IELTS (International English Language Testing System) is a standardized test of English language proficiency for non-native speakers. It is used by universities and employers to assess the English language skills of international students and professionals. The test consists of four sections: Listening, Reading, Writing, and Speaking. The Listening section tests the ability to understand spoken English in various contexts. The Reading section tests the ability to understand written English in various contexts. The Writing section tests the ability to write in English. The Speaking section tests the ability to speak in English. The test is taken at authorized test centers around the world. The results of the test are used to determine whether a student is eligible for admission to a university or whether a professional is qualified for a job. The test is also used to assess the English language skills of immigrants and refugees. The test is a highly respected and widely used measure of English language proficiency.
